

Clinical Dialogue Transcript — Addiction

Therapist Model:	barca-boy/primate_autotrain_mental_llama
Patient Model:	llama-3.1-8b-instant
Condition / DSM-5:	Addiction
Session ID:	1f80d10f-cd1b-498c-961a-2c50526713b9
Date / Time:	2026-07-18 19:13:54
Total Dialogue Turns:	21

THERAPIST (Turn 1)

Hi, thanks for coming in today. What's been going on for you lately?

PATIENT (Turn 2)

My partner's been on my case about it, to be honest. I don't know why it's such a big deal.

THERAPIST (Turn 3)

I see. Has he explained why he's concerned?

PATIENT (Turn 4)

He just says I'm drinking too much, and that it's affecting my life. But I can handle it, I'm not like that.

THERAPIST (Turn 5)

I understand. Have you considered why your partner's concerned?

PATIENT (Turn 6)

(scoffs slightly) Oh, I'm sure he's just worried I'm gonna lose my job or something. I mean, I'm fine. I'm still working, still paying the bills... (pauses, looks away)

THERAPIST (Turn 7)

It's understandable that your partner's concerned. I don't think it's fair to dismiss his worries.

PATIENT (Turn 8)

(shrugs) Look, I get it. But what's it to you? You're not my partner. Can't he just leave me alone about it?
(crosses arms, slightly defensive)

THERAPIST (Turn 9)

I understand that you want your partner to leave you alone about it. But it's important to consider the reasons behind his concern.

PATIENT (Turn 10)

(sighs, looks down) Fine. If I'm being honest, there are some pretty bad mornings after. And the weekends...
(pauses, trails off)

THERAPIST (Turn 11)

I see. Have you considered how this may be affecting your daily life?

PATIENT (Turn 12)

(looks up, slightly guarded) Like what? I still go to work, I still take care of things... (pauses, thinks for a moment) Okay, fine. Some days I'm a little shaky, and I might need a drink at lunch to calm down. But that's not a big deal, right?

THERAPIST (Turn 13)

I understand. But it's important to consider the potential consequences of drinking heavily on a daily basis.

PATIENT (Turn 14)

(looks away, slightly irritated) Consequences? Like what? I'm still standing, aren't I? (pauses, voice lowers slightly) Okay, okay. Maybe some days I'm not as sharp as I used to be. But it's not like I'm hurting anyone.

THERAPIST (Turn 15)

I understand. But it's important to consider how this may affect you in the future.

PATIENT (Turn 16)

(sighs, looks down) Yeah, yeah. I get it. My partner's worried I'm gonna lose my job, I'm gonna ruin my health... (pauses, shakes head) Look, can we just focus on what's going on now? I'm not exactly thrilled about coming here and talking about all this.

THERAPIST (Turn 17)

Of course. I understand. Let's focus on what's going on now. Can you tell me more about why your partner's concerned?

PATIENT (Turn 18)

(looks up, slightly softer) It's just... I don't know, things have been really stressful lately. Work's been a nightmare, and my partner's been on my case about this drinking thing. I guess I have been drinking more than I used to. (pauses, thinks for a moment) I mean, I'll have a few beers after work, and then maybe a few more when I get home... (trails off, looks away)

THERAPIST (Turn 19)

I see. Have you considered seeking help for this?

PATIENT (Turn 20)

(shrugs) Help for what? I'm not an addict or anything. I just drink to unwind, okay? (pauses, looks down) But, I don't know... maybe I should try to cut back or something. (looks up, slightly hesitant) Do you think that's a good idea?

THERAPIST (Turn 21)

It's a good idea to consider seeking help for this.