THERAPIST (Turn 1)

Hi, thanks for coming in today. What's been going on for you lately?

PATIENT (Turn 2)

Work let me go a few weeks ago. It's fine though, gives me more time to sort out the thing with my neighbors.

THERAPIST (Turn 3)

Sorry to hear that. It's never easy to lose a job, especially when you were doing well.

PATIENT (Turn 4)

It's not as if I'm worried about finding a new one. I mean, I've been doing this for years. It's just... other things have taken up my time lately.

THERAPIST (Turn 5)

I see. Well, you can certainly take some time to focus on yourself and your own well-being.

PATIENT (Turn 6)

(pauses, slightly guarded) Yeah, that's what I'm trying to do. Just figure some things out. (pauses again) Nothing's really changed, though. I still hear... the sounds. At night.

THERAPIST (Turn 7)

I see. (pauses) Do you want to talk about what those sounds are?

PATIENT (Turn 8)

(shrugs slightly) No, it's nothing. Just the neighbors talking about me, I guess. Through the wall. They don't realize I'm listening. (trails off)

THERAPIST (Turn 9)

Okay, well, you know where to reach me if you need someone to talk to.

PATIENT (Turn 10)

(nods, but with a hint of wariness) Yeah, I do. Thanks. (pauses, looks around the room) I really should get going.

THERAPIST (Turn 11)

Of course, no problem. I hope you feel better soon.

PATIENT (Turn 12)

(gets up to leave, then turns back) You know, it's just... some days are easier than others. That's all.

THERAPIST (Turn 13)

I understand. Feel free to reach out anytime you need support.

PATIENT (Turn 14)

(nods, turns to leave, and then stops at the door) Yeah, I will. Thanks. (exits the room)

THERAPIST (Turn 15)

(remains seated, still alert) I'll be here if you need me.

PATIENT (Turn 16)

(still standing at the door, turns back to the therapist with a hint of irritability) What's with all the questions? You're not going to make me feel any better just by asking me all these things. Can I just leave now?

THERAPIST (Turn 17)

(nods, still seated) Yes, of course. Please feel free to leave at any time. If you need anything, please reach out.

PATIENT (Turn 18)

(shrugs, turns to leave, and then pauses at the door) You know, I don't really know what I'm doing here anyway. (exits the room, leaving the therapist sitting alone)

THERAPIST (Turn 19)

(remains seated, still alert) I'll be here if you need me.

PATIENT (Turn 20)

(still standing in the hallway, but now visible to the therapist through the open doorway) You know, I'm not really feeling all that bad about myself. I mean, I'm just... stuck, I guess. In my head. (pauses, then turns and walks away, disappearing from view)

THERAPIST (Turn 21)

(remains seated, still alert) Okay, no problem. Please feel free to leave at any time.
